Prudential California Realty Rewards Outstanding
 San Mateo County Teachers

Sales Agents and Employees Grant 85 Northern California Teachers $51,000

SAN MATEO, Calif. – May 25, 2010 – The Prudential California Realty Education Foundation honored 85 Northern California public school teachers for their outstanding achievements by awarding $51,000 in grants during May. Families, peers, community leaders and Prudential California agents honored the teachers at the annual event held in Walnut Creek and Sacramento on May 14, and San Mateo on May 21.

Founded in 1992 by Prudential California Realty, the Education Foundation has awarded more than $750,000 in grants to 1,300 exceptional elementary, middle and high school teachers since its inception.

David Cobo, former chairman, and Ed Krafchow, president and CEO of Prudential California Realty, founded the Education Foundation, which is committed to the process of seeking out worthy candidates as grant recipients. Defined standards facilitate the selection process. Each year, grants are awarded to teachers who have been selected through an intense selection process by peers, principals, students and parents.

“The grantees are teachers who made an exceptional contribution to their students during the past year,” said Krafchow. “This is our opportunity to acknowledge their effort with grants that will help them continue their good work,” he added.

This year, each teacher received nearly $600 which they can use however they like. The Education Foundation grants do not come from corporate funds, but directly from the personal donations of the agents, owners, managers and staff as a way of acknowledging and thanking teachers in their communities.

Grantees for 2010 included teachers in the following counties: Alameda, Contra Costa, Marin, Napa, Placer, Sacramento, San Francisco, San Joaquin, San Mateo, Solano and Sonoma.
